Solid waste amendment comes back to county

New wording adopted by solid waste planning committee

By Terry Wright

The Northeast Michigan Solid Waste Planning Committee (NMSWP), met in Atlanta on October 11, to review the City Environmental Services (CES), proposal to amend Crawford County's solid waste management plan. The meeting became necessary when the Crawford County Board of Commissioners turned down the amendment as it was originally worded but voted to send the proposal back to NMSWP for rewording.

NMSWP consists of members representing the eight most northeasterly counties of the lower peninsula. Crawford County has two representatives on the committee; Gary Crosby, the northern manager of City Environmental Services Inc., and Bill Coy of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners.

The original wording of the amendment included the addition of 17 counties to the nine counties who can currently dispose of waste at the CES landfill as written in the present five and 20 year Crawford County solid waste management plan.

The new wording of the amendment does not include Manistee County, who asked to be removed from the plan. It does include wording recommended by the Department of Natural Resources, making waste disposal of outside counties in the CES landfill possible only if Crawford County is included in the solid waste management plans of those counties. The new wording also specifies that Crawford County agrees to accept up to 100 percent of the solid waste generated in those counties.

NMSWP voted in favor of adopting the new wording as recommended by the Crawford County Board of Commissioners. The only dissenting vote of the 16 members present at the meeting, was cast by Commissioner Coy.

The reworded amendment will now be sent back to Crawford County for further action. If the commissioners vote in favor of the amendment it will go on to each municipality in the county where it must be approved by a two-thirds majority before it can receive final approval from the Director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Man missing for ten days found dead near Frederic

By Terry Wright

Crawford County Sheriff Department deputies recovered the body of Rodney Miljure, 45, from a wooded area south of Oakwood Cemetery in Frederic on Sunday, October 17. Miljure had been reported missing on October 6, after his brother had dropped him at the cemetery to visit family gravesites. When the brother returned one-half hour later, Miljure was nowhere to be found.

Extensive searches of the area by deputies and K-9 unit had no success in locating Miljure until his body was discovered Sunday afternoon, partially covered with new-fallen leaves, by an unidentified passer-by. The body was transported to Mercy Hospital in Grayling where identification was made by family members.

Sheriff David Lovely stated that the cause of death has not yet been determined. "We are still waiting for lab reports," Lovely said.

Local nursing home could lose license to operate

By Terry Wright

The Meadows of Grayling, a full service, long-term nursing facility in Grayling, is in danger of losing its state license to operate. The Michigan Department of Public Health has restricted the scope of Meadows operations until corrections can be made. Restrictions include a denial of future licensing, a ban on new resident admissions, and a ban on patient readmissions.

The actions are the result of the annual Michigan Public Health Department survey of the Meadows that was conducted last March. The survey found problems in the ability of the Meadows to administer quality care and assess resident health care needs.

According to Catherine Hunter, who is a licensing officer with the Michigan Department of Public Health, "They have had serious problems keeping trained employees, including direct care and licensed professional staff." She said because of the problem in keeping trained employees, the Meadows is too often staffed with untrained resident care providers.

Follow up surveys later this summer, showed partial compliance with health department regulations, but two "level A" citations had not been corrected. Those citations stated ten areas of failure to comply with laws regulating patient assessments, and five areas of non-compliance in the area of quality patient care.

Hunter said when the follow-up surveys determined that the problems had not been corrected, a referral was made to the U.S. Health Care Financing Administration, Division of Health Standards. "Whatever happens is now up to the feds," Hunter said. "We want the Meadows to come into compliance, particularly for existing residents. We need those beds."

The preliminary examination of accused murderer Richard Peter Marsack continued Friday. By the end of the day, Crawford County Prosecuting Attorney John Huss rested his case.

Marsack is accused of the July 13, murder of Grayling DNR employee Terry Barr. Barr's body was found on the morning of July 13, on Wilcox Bridge Road with a single shotgun wound in his back. He apparently had been shot while enroute to work at the Grayling DNR office when he got out of his vehicle to remove a downed tree from the road. Barr was Marsack's supervisor.

Friday's proceedings were highlighted by the testimony of Marsack's son, Richard Dale Marsack. He testified that an ax found near the murder scene that had been altered with a bolt through its head, resembled an ax his father owned.

Other testimony indicated that a hair found in a tree at the murder scene has similarities to hair samples taken from Marsack. Further testing is being done on the hair by Michigan State Police forensic scientists, including possible DNA tests which could positively determine whether the hair came from Marsack.

Huss was able to rest his prosecution efforts before 83rd District Court Judge Francis Walsh based on several pieces of critical evidence including the establishment of motive on the part of Marsack.

1) Marsack was scheduled to meet with Barr on the day of the murder for disciplinary measures in his job performance.

2) A vehicle similar to one used by Marsack was seen near the murder scene prior to the murder.

3) The shotgun that fired the slug that killed Barr has been positively identified as belonging to Marsack.

4) That shotgun was found weeks after the murder in the yard of one of Marsack's neighbors.

5) The identification of the ax and the hair found near the murder scene.

Marsack was arrested by authorities two days after the murder at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport. He was disembarking from a flight that originated in Traverse City.

Although Marsack has not testified on his own behalf, persons close to the case have said that Marsack has held the position through the proceedings that he is the victim of a frame-up, and that he is completely innocent of the murder charge.

It is now up to Judge Walsh to determine if Marsack must stand trial in the murder. His decision is expected after at least one more day of cross examination by defense attorney Richard Zipser. A date has not yet been set for the continuation of the preliminary exam.

Marsack is currently being held, without bond, in the Crawford County Jail.

Grayling City/Twp. fire dept. increases capability

By Terry Wright

One hundred eighty thousand dollars worth of heavy duty, high tech fire fighting equipment has been added to the Grayling City/Township Volunteer Fire Department in the form of one new tanker/pumper truck. The new truck, designed and built especially for the needs of the Grayling department, arrived in Grayling, Sunday night from its point of assembly in Pennsylvania.

The truck is the culmination of months of study and design by a committee of three Grayling firemen.

After determining the needs of the department, the committee accepted bids for the truck. The bid was won by Kovatch Mobile Equipment of Nesquehoning, Pennsylvania. With the help of manufacturing professionals the Grayling committee was able to design the specifications of the truck from the axles through the finished product. The specs were finalized and the truck was ordered in April.

The new truck will eventually replace a 23 year-old tanker that is currently in use. Two other Grayling firetrucks are scheduled to be completely refurbished within the next year completing a $250,000 project to upgrade the department. The upgrade is expected to provide Grayling and Grayling Township with first rate equipment that should last at least 20 years.

Features of the new firetruck include; a 1,000 gallon water holding capacity, a 1,000 gallon per minute pumping capacity, 110 amp. outlets for extra lighting, three one and one-half inch attack line fittings, seven complete airpack units with seven extra air tanks, a five man transport capacity, a 300 horse-power Cummins diesel engine, an all aluminum body, and ample storage for other firefighting equipment.

The new truck will go into service as soon as local firemen can be trained in its use.

Fireman Dave Reisinger who was on the committee that purchased the truck said, "It will last. It will be a good piece of equipment 20 years down the road."

The Grayling City/Township Volunteer Fire Department consists of six fire fighting vehicles, operated by 23 volunteer firemen.

The cost of the fire department, including the cost of the new truck, is shared by the City of Grayling and Grayling Township. City Manager Jerry Morford said, "We were able to buy the truck outright through the city's capital replacement fund. We put money into the fund every year so we can afford to buy equipment when we need it without going into debt."

NEW FIRETRUCK ARRIVES IN GRAYLING--Grayling City Manager Jerry Morford proudly inspects the new, $180,000 firetruck that has been added to the Grayling City/Township Volunteer Fire Department. The new state-of-the-art vehicle will go into service as soon as staff training is complete. The new firetruck is the first part of a project that will upgrade local firefighting equipment. Within the next year other trucks will be completely refurbished.

Governor's school reform proposal would increase spending in district schools

By Terry Wright

Per-student spending in the Crawford-AuSable School District, would increase substantially under Governor John Engler's school reform proposal.

The plan guarantees school districts $4,500 per student, per year. Those districts who currently spend more than $6,500 per student would be allowed to levy millage of up to one percent of their current level of spending to help make up their deficit. The proposal still allows local debt retirement millage as a means to finance school space requirements.

The Crawford-AuSable School District (CASF), currently receives about $3,714 per student, per year. Only six other school districts in the state receive less, so the increase to $4,500 would be welcomed according to Superintendent Kent Reynolds.

Engler unveiled the thirty-one bill proposal in a speech Tuesday, October 5, before a joint session of the state legislature. Engler referred to the Michigan public school system as a "monopoly of mediocrity," and claimed that his proposal was an important step in putting the system back on the right track.

Highlights of the proposal include a constitutional amendment that would dedicate monies to the state school aid fund by raising the state sales tax from 4 percent to 6 percent; imposing a 16 mill statewide property tax on non-homestead property; dedicating all net lottery revenue and interest to the school aid fund; reorganizing the State Board of Education to consist of regional members; and to select the State Superintendent by gubernatorial appointment.

If the Engler plan passes through the legislature, state voters would be asked to approve the plan in a statewide referendum scheduled on February 8, 1994.

Reynolds explained that the increase would allow CASF to realize some of its long term objectives sooner than originally planned. He said plans for great program, "Reynolds said. "We're very anxious to get it going."

Reynolds' praise of the proposal was not entirely without criticism, however, "There are parts of the proposal that are a disaster," he said.

Only six other school districts in the state receive less than the Crawford-AuSable district, so the increase to $4,500 would be welcomed according to Superintendent Kent Reynolds.

a new middle school "team concept" of education that concentrates specific groups of students with specific teams of teachers for longer, more intense periods, might soon become reality if the Engler proposal is passed. "It's a political vote getter. In Minnesota, where there has been school-of-choice for several years, only one to two percent of students changed schools, and less than ten percent of the students who changed did it for a better education. The rest changed because their new schools were closer to daycare facilities or closer to their parents workplace."

Reynolds said the sales tax increase will be an undue burden on the poor, but he believes the tourists who use our resources should help pay for them.

Another aspect of the proposal that Reynolds doesn't like is the formation of supplemental school boards for each school building. "This would mean that we would have four governing boards in this district, plus our district-wide school board. The new boards would consist of parents elected by other parents, and teachers elected by other teachers. They would have complete control over building decisions, and how allocated money could be spent in those buildings. It would take too much authority away from district school boards, and it would be impossible to budget district allocations."

Other parts of the plan include replacing the current cigarette tax with a 7 cent, per package, tax on all tobacco products, and a four percent transfer tax on home sales.

In grading the governor's proposal, Reynolds said, "Instead of reducing the bureaucracy in education like Engler wants, his plan will increase administrative reporting functions. I would give the overall plan a grade of C or C-."

State Representative Allen Lowe (R-Grayling), said that he and other representatives met with Engler after the proposal speech and told him he can not support the education package without budget cuts. "The governor told us to get a consensus list of cuts and he would look at them," Lowe said. "If he wants his proposal to pass the House, he'll have to look at them."

at Grayling Mercy Hospital

A new series of Lamaze childbirth education classes will begin Thursday, November 4, at Mercy Hospital, Grayling with instructor Joy Bobenmoyer, R.N.

Expectant parents can prepare for the birth of their child during this series of six sessions. V.F.W. starts its membership drive

The months of October, November and December have been designated by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3736 and Auxiliary as "all out recruitment" months for new, transferred or reinstated members.

Any person, male or female, that has served honorably in the Armed Forces of the United States in any foreign war, insurrection or expedition are eligible. You must also be a citizen of the United States and be entitled to a recognized campaign medal. The fundamental difference between the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veteran organizations is our eligibility qualifications in which we take great pride.

A member who has been delinquent in a post for more than one year may reinstate his or her membership by payment of their 1994 dues. Any member in good standing may transfer their membership to the post by presentation of his or her current membership card and a completed application card. There is no cost to transfer from one post to another.

Any veteran who meets the eligibility qualifications may become a life member. Life membership fees are higher but paid only once. A time payment plan is available for life membership. However a veteran is not recognized as a "Life Member" until the membership is paid in full and at that time will be issued the life membership card.

Membership in the ladies auxiliary is limited to wives, widows, mothers, grandmothers, daughters and sisters of the eligible veterans. The veterans membership does not impede the membership of the auxiliary applicant. Transfer, reinstatement and life memberships are also available in the auxiliary using the same qualifications as for the veteran. Women eligible for membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars are eligible for membership in the ladies auxiliary.

Crawford AuSable School District receives Drug-Free School grant

The Drug-Free Schools effort in Crawford County has been awarded a grant of money from the Governor's Discretionary Fund, through the Office of Drug Control Policy in Lansing. The funding will allow the Crawford AuSable School System to provide individualized and group counseling for students kindergarten through 12 who are determined to be "at risk" in terms of substance abuse.

Unfortunately a significant number of students throughout northern Michigan are considered to be "at risk."

This determination is based upon the following factors:

- has experienced repeated failure in school;
- has become pregnant;
- is economically disadvantaged;
- is the child of a drug or alcohol abuser;
- is the victim of physical, sexual, or

Hughes hired to teach physical education, music

By Nancy Lemmen

Local resident Donna Hughes has been hired by the Crawford AuSable School District to teach physical education and vocal music at Frederic Elementary School and to direct the 3rd and 4th grade choirs.

Hughes graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of music education degree and K-12 certification (with a major in voice and a minor in piano). She earned a master of arts degree in elementary education (classroom teaching) from Central Michigan University.

Hughes has worked as a substitute teacher and volunteer with the CASD for the past six years and spent the last nine months as a reading teacher at Shawano Center. She also was a substitute teacher in the Metro Detroit area and in public and private schools in the southern Florida area.

Even before moving to Crawford County, Hughes was familiar with the area, as she has visited Grayling since early childhood.

"I've had the opportunity to meet and work with many of the teachers at CASD," said Hughes. "It's great to be a part of the team now."

She said she would like her students to develop self-esteem, good attitudes and respect for each other.

In addition to her interest in music, Hughes enjoys reading, sewing, water sports, camping and travel.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mother seeks help for return LETTERS TO THE EDITOR of baseball card collection

On Friday, October 1, my son made the mistake of trusting his schoolmates and took his pride and joy to school — his baseball card collection. He has worked hard and saved his own money for a couple of years to buy his cards and was proud of how many he had. Unfortunately, someone gave no thought to his feelings and decided they wanted a baseball card collection without having to buy them or work for them, just by taking them.

Nathan discovered his loss at the end of the day, so there was no time to question anyone. I would like to hope whoever did this would have an attack of guilty conscience over the weekend and return this baseball card collection to my son. (This did not happen though.) So I would like to ask the help of the parents of children who go to Frederic Elementary. If your child came home with a yellow binder that says "Nick at Nite" on the front of it — or a large amount of baseball cards, in the plastic pages or not, then it was taken from my son's closed school bag.

He would very much appreciate getting them back — no questions asked. They could be dropped off at the school office with his name — Nathan Frankina, Mrs. Dunckley's class — on it.

Thank you for your help,
Carol Frankina

Commissioners should give serious thought before voting on landfill issue

Dear Commissioner Smock:

I read with great interest your very concerned letter in the October 14, 1993, issue of the Crawford County Avalanche. You, as one of six of our commissioners, have a great load on your shoulders in deciding the upcoming vote as to whether or not Crawford County is to become "the garbage dump of Michigan." I'm wondering what the other commissioners are thinking. I thank God that we have at least one or two concerned commissioners.

I am of the belief that each county should be responsible and take care of its own garbage and waste. Even though the City Environmental Service is at present doing a very good job, I do not believe we should expand the intake any larger than it is at this date. I was very concerned over this situation over a year and a half ago. If the commissioners were to give a "yes" vote on this proposal it would about double the garbage waste hauled into Crawford County from the proposed 26 counties in Michigan. I refer you to my letter to the editor in the Avalanche dated April 16, 1992. I submit a copy of this letter and respectfully ask that it be reprinted in the coming October 21, 1993 issue.

The front page of the Avalanche now boasts, "Home of the AuSable River." If the commissioners give us a "yes" vote on the new proposal to take on extra counties, bringing our total up to 26 counties hauling truck load after truck loads here, the slogan could be very well changed to "Home of Michigan's Garbage Dump!"

I pray that our commissioners give much serious thought to the future of our beautiful Crawford County, our fresh and pure water supply, our now clean and sparkling lakes and streams, before even considering a "yes" vote on this proposal. Please, Mr. Commissioners, vote "no" and retain control of our county and its environment.

This is one of the very most important votes before the commissioners which could effect our Crawford County now and forever. Not only ourselves, but our future generations are at risk.

I want to voice my support of both Pastor VanKleek and Pastor Barnett. They are uncompromising in their preaching of God's word.

I was surprised by Whitey Madson not wanting Pastor VanKleek to even write another letter to the Avalanche.

LET'S TALK ABOUT IT

By Joe Murphy

This is the time of year that the old man loves to be in the woods. The beauty that the eyes behold and the smell of fresh fallen leaves makes a trip into the woods a real pleasure. Although at times I take a gun with me, I am not really out there hunting. I am there to admire nature at its finest. We have had a few days when you would almost have to chain me up to keep me out of the woods. Sometimes I only take my metal detector and go out to an old logging camp site to try to find some old artifact of bygone days. Never find anything valuable, but at times I find things I think are interesting.

Old harness buckles and things like that seem to make you feel a little closer to the lumberjacks of the tall timber days, just walking the ground where they lived out those long cold days of dark-to-dark, back breaking work. White sites of the cook shack and the bunk house where they ate and rested make those days seem more real. It looks like today might turn out to be pretty nice so maybe this afternoon I will go out and see what I can find. I seem to have pretty good luck at finding those little metal hammers that the blacksmiths made for the teamsters that have a snap, which they hooked to a ring on the harness of the harness. That was the tool they used to tighten a loose horse shoe or to knock loose packed snow and ice from the teams' hooves to give them better footing. At times I have found parts of some teamsters' harness covers, as they liked to add a lot of decorations to them. Harness covers were made of heavy leather and their purpose was to protect the horse's shoulder from rain and snow. If the collar pad got wet it was easy to scald a team's shoulders so bad that they couldn't work. It was a bad mark for a teamster if his team was not ready to do their work, so they did all they could to protect their teams from injury or sickness.

If the old man can get his bow to shoot anywhere near where he's looking, I may take it on some of my trips into the woods. I used to enjoy bow hunting even though I have never killed a deer with one. It is such a nice time of year and when the rut is on, bucks seem to move at anytime of day. I have never had the confidence that I could make a nice clean kill, so though I have had some nice bucks at almost spitting distance, I held back on shooting. The few I did shoot at, when I first started, seemed to have a charmed life. There was always one little twig I didn't see somewhere between us, and I was always able to hit that and my carefully aimed arrow took off for parts unknown. A few experiences like that destroyed my confidence of being able to make a clean shot, and I, rather than take a chance on wounding them, passed up the shot. I remember one summer I practiced almost everyday and was sure I could put my arrow just where I wanted it. Then the day before the season opened I thought I'd better try the hunting points I would be using; they planed off in all directions and all my practice was for naught.

ALMANACK

Richard Millman

Wrong place, wrong time, wrong reason

At the outset of this essay, let it be admitted that the writer is no expert on world history of this country's foreign affairs.

All I know about what's going on in the world today is what I read in the papers. That's not unlike most Americans. It brings a sort of a "Joe Six Pack" approach to foreign affairs.

But from what I read in the newspapers — and from what I see lately in those all-too-graphic pictures on television news shows — the conclusion about America's role in Somalia right now seems inescapable:

We're in the wrong place, at the wrong time, for the wrong reasons.

ADMITTEDLY THE NEWS

and pictures appear one-sided. The mere facts as they are presented in word and picture lead to the obvious conclusion that American soldiers in Somalia are the good guys, trying to do good things, and being killed and wounded and humiliated in the process.

The Somalians — both quasi-military forces and civilian populations, too — come off as the bad guys, tricking our military forces, inflicting unwanted punishment upon them, desecrating corpses, and gloating at the results.

When all this started just nine months ago, our motives were pure — and simple.

America would provide protection so delivery of food to starving Africans would be assured. Local bandits and crime lords would be held at the bay so the hungry could be fed. The U.S. was providing a noble service. And we would help the United Nations establish stability for the Somalian society.

But now, it has become something entirely different. It's a mini-war. To some decision makers, it has become a matter of our national pride.

* * *

PRESIDENT CLINTON HAS

promised more troops. He is escalating the conflict.

We will send 1,700 more soldiers directly to Somalia, with about 3,600 Marines on ships offshore as a quick response when needed, to go along with about 4,700 troops already there.

That builds a combat force to 10,000 fighting men and women. Adding sailors on Navy ships in the area brings the total military personnel in combat situation to 20,000.

What is the U.S. doing with 20,000 war-ready personnel in Somalia?

According to Mr. Clinton, it's to protect America and Americans now and in the future. He justified our position with this description of what would happen otherwise.

"Within months, Somali children again would be dying in the streets. Our own credibility with friends and allies would be severely damaged. Our leadership in world affairs would be undermined..."

"And all around the world, aggressors, thugs and terrorists will conclude that the best way to get us to change our policies is to kill our people. It would be open season on Americans."

Mr. Clinton pledged to pull out American forces by March 31, 1994.

It's a good bet things will not be settled in six months. Turmoil will still be rampant in Somalia. It has no effective central government. Bandits and military war lords can simply outwait America's impatience.

AFRICA AND AMERICA

are different places. They have different goals and means. They have different ideals. They have different histories and backgrounds.

Is national "credibility" a good reason to commit young Americans to die for their country in some far off land? American foreign entanglement usually has better reasons than that... or at least, better slogans.

World War I was the war to end all wars. World War II was fought to make the world safe for democracy. In Vietnam, we had to repulse world communism, or all Asia would fall.

Even in Granada and Panama, there were reasons, pale though they were, that tried to make some sort of sense.

Is Somalia the right place to flex our might? Is this the right time?

Not now. Not there. Not for this reason.

Or so it seems to this Joe-Six Pack, non-expert on foreign policy.

WRIGHT ANGLES

by Terry Wright

A few days ago, an area daily newspaper printed an article about the Grayling Youth Booster Club. Normally, a group like the Booster Club is always thankful to have publicity of any kind that highlights its many fine achievements. That article, however, had so many inaccuracies that some Booster Club members were very disappointed in it, and the club has been such a fantastic organization for the kids in and around Grayling that it merits another look.

The Booster Club was born in 1971 when a local student was looking for some help getting to basketball camp. He asked for a donation from one of the local service organizations and had been turned down. When Jim Bendig and Irv McIsaac heard of his need they took out a personal loan of $1,000, but instead of sending one boy to camp, they sent the whole team. The loan was paid off in 60 days from the sale of 50/50 tickets by some of the better salesmen in Grayling. The entire project was so successful the men decided to form a club to raise money for youth athletics. Jim Bendig was the first president.

Charging a membership fee of $5 and a yearly dues of $3, the Grayling Athletic Booster Club grew in membership and the continued sale of 50/50 tickets enabled it to make and spend money on local kids. Shortly after its inception, the club started a booster bingo program that soon became the mainstay of its fund raisers. For many years Harry Miller donated his Tuesday nights overseeing the bingo program.

A few years later the scope of the club changed from solely athletic donations to being a general youth booster club.

Today the club is 22 years old and has about 1,000 members, and it has given away, with no strings, about $512,000. Every penny is and has been spent with the best interests of local kids in mind and no child has been untouched by its generosity.

Just a few of the recent Booster Club donations have built several athletic fields, bought snowmaking equipment, paid for every county school child to go through the Crawford County Museum, bought public playground equipment for four playgrounds in the county, paid for reading programs in the County Library, bought camping equipment for the cub scouts, equipped the high school with a modern and complete weight training facility, paid for a counseling program in the elementary schools, bought Fourth of July fireworks, sponsored and organized a kids fishing contest, paid for the Grayling High School band to march in the AuSable River Festival parade, sent county kids to special olympics, and on, and on, and on.

Contrary to what daily paper printed, the Booster Club did not build a senior citizen complex. Its mission is solely for kids. What the club did, was purchase $10,000 worth of playground equipment that was erected on the AuSagra Acres playground.

What really makes the Grayling Youth Booster Club unique is the fact that it has operated all these years without an administrator and without an office. Memberships and correspondence are handled through a post office box. Once a month the board of directors meets over coffee to distribute money. The Booster Club has grown in importance so that there is never a problem filling board vacancies. Many board members today, were recipients of Booster Club generosity in years past. Most board members run for re-election over and over (Irv is in his twenty-second year as a board member).

If you're not a member of the Grayling Youth Booster Club, especially today when kids are trying to cope in a world lacking in moral fibre, then you should be. Today's kids really will be tomorrow's leaders, and if we can help them, in any way, we should. The Grayling Youth Booster Club is dedicated to providing a world of mental and physical challenges and rewards today, for the kids of Crawford County, that will help them grow to be responsible citizens tomorrow. Please join the club today, by sending your one-time $5 membership fee and $3 for your first year dues to: Grayling Youth Booster Club, P.O. Box 279, Grayling, MI, 49738.

MERCY MEMO

By Dennis J. Renander, President and CEO Mercy Health Services North

The delivery of healthcare as we know it today is about to be radically transformed. With the introduction of the American Health Security Act by President Bill Clinton on September 22, we can be certain that healthcare will change.

Our federal and state governments spend about $2.2 billion on healthcare each day. That translates to about $92 million per hour or $1.5 million per minute, yet, there are 37 million Americans who do not qualify or have access to appropriate healthcare coverage.

In reviewing the 239-page federal document on healthcare reform, one can draw many conclusions. The linchpin of this healthcare reform package is universal access and/or coverage. This indicates that 80% of the population will be directed to purchase their healthcare coverage through government authorized cooperatives known as Regional Healthcare Alliances.

Through this mechanism all employed, self-employed and unemployed individuals, Medicaid recipients and firms with fewer than 5,000 employees would be required to purchase health care through a regional alliance.

The remaining 20% of the population would continue to purchase their health insurance through traditional channels. Those exempted in groups at the current time are Medicare beneficiaries, military personnel, individuals receiving services through the Department of Veterans Affairs and Americans covered by the Indian Health Service.

As proposed in the healthcare plan, all Americans would receive full health care coverage by the year 1998. With the evolution of the American Health Security Act, it appears certain that emphasis is to shift from the traditional fee for service indemnity model to managed care. Managed care may be delivered through a variety of financial models such as HMOs, PPOs, PHOs, etc.

There are many uncertainties as the healthcare debate shifts to the U.S. Congress and faces scrutiny and analysis from both political arenas. The discussion will be confused, compounded and clouded by perhaps a half dozen different healthcare bills sponsored by special interest groups seeking benefits, not outlined in President Clinton's plan.

There continued to be many unanswered questions with regards to what role our state government will play in the administration of regional alliances and the accountable health plans; and the role insurance companies will serve as we reform the insurance options through these health alliances; and how will Medicare beneficiaries be included under the American Health Security Act. What is the cost? Who will pay for it? These are questions that remain unanswered. Yet to be addressed are the issues of research and development, technology assessment, long term care, and particularly the implementation of the plan in underserved areas.

In reviewing the 239-page federal document, there were only three pages dedicated to rural healthcare delivery and what reform will bring to rural America. At the heart of the change, as it affects the rural communities in which we live, we must accept the fact that the healthcare delivery system will no longer be just hospital centered, but based on an integrated community network of care. Our success will be measured by the improved health status of our communities and our ability to collaborate with various providers, and not increased utilization of our organizations.

It is now incumbent upon all of us, consumers, providers, big and small business, government, labor, insurers, educators, to seize this moment and work towards solutions that will serve our communities. As a community we must become proactive in the development of our healthcare reform. Certain responsibilities and accountabilities of healthcare reform will be left to the states to administer as they see fit. The proactive communities will be a step ahead in the debate influencing healthcare reform as it unfolds locally.

I believe this is a call for all to step forward in a leadership role and become knowledgeable public advocates for what a community desires to do. It's a call to be involved during this transformation.

It is essential that the community rally behind this major reform issue, for failure to do so would simply indicate that healthcare is a commodity and will be subject to public utility-type regulations and images. This transformation calls for all of us to rethink how we measure our successes. We can no longer afford to provide care for only the sick, rather we must be accountable for the health status of our entire communities.

Over the last quarter of a century, this is perhaps the most significant social change attempted by an American president since the introduction of Medicare in the mid 1960s. I would challenge each of you to become involved in developing a community healthcare system that will move each of us into the 21st Century, for we cannot go forward as long as we're holding on to what no longer works.

We are all at risk for the changes that lie ahead; for addressing this issue along in the 1990s will make the 1980s and 1970s look like a stroll around the lake!

Throughout the coming months a number of initiatives will be taken on at the state, regional, and local levels to educate, inform, and seek the opinions of all regarding this healthcare transformation, and I would challenge each of you to become informed and involved.

Road commission doing good job

We have been hearing a lot lately about big government getting involved in our daily lives and sucking off more and more of the resources that we, as citizens, could use to buy products that would create jobs so that others could enjoy the same benefits if they were willing to work. Most of the dollars that get sucked off by big government for the programs that we, as working people, never get any benefit from, so when we see things happen that make our daily lives better it comes as a great surprise. One of the things that government does for us is to keep us in good roads so that we can get from place to place easily. These roads are not always mile after mile of concrete ribbons, but the roads we use to get to our jobs, homes, shopping centers, hospitals, etc. We have been spoiled rotten and have grown to expect nice smooth roads so that our aging vehicles do not fall apart when we drive over them.

Well, our road commission is in charge of giving us the best they can for the resources they have to work with. We have read and heard lots of complaints about our road commission, which we think are unfounded. The gravel road to our house on the east side of the county has always been maintained well in all seasons. This year, because of some P. Peline Construction in past years and the frequency of hard rains, the road was becoming barely passable in places. The road commission and the Gabinan P. Peline Company got their heads together and put our road back in good shape. So we want to applaud the efforts of these people for their response to our needs. You can never please all the people all the time, and maybe it's us who expect too much from our tax dollars. But it's gratifying to see benefits close to home.

Christians should love, not judge

Thank you Loretta Sorenson Charron! Your letter was refreshing! I'm so tired of the hateful attitude that is expressed in the guise of Christian "authority." I am a student at Central Michigan University and a twenty-one year resident of Grayling. I receive a subscription to the Avalanche because I like to keep up on the happenings in my favorite town. One part of the paper offends me on a fairly regular basis. "The Bible Speaks" should be called "Pastor Barnett Judges." What ever happened to unconditional love? What happened to respect? Speaking as a Christian, I am tired of people "using" religion to express hate. God loves! We as His people should love, not judge.

Thanks for "listening."

Correction/Clarification

Donna Thomson was incorrectly listed as Donna Maska, and Sherry Blaine was inadvertently left off the special thank you box on the United Way Auction ad on page 10B of the October 14 Avalanche edition. Our Trip To The Bog
Written by Mrs. Rauch-Smock's second grade class

On Friday, October 8th, we went to Hartwick Pines State Park. Mr. Hoover showed us many neat insects and plants. He also told us about a lake that used to be there and about a train that had sunk there. Some people believe that the train is still buried there. The bog was kinda like a waterbed mattress. After our cold day outside we went to McDonald's for hot chocolate. The hot chocolate from McDonald's was very yummy. It was a great day.

Facts about credit unions

A credit union is a member-owned, not-for-profit, cooperative financial institution formed to permit its members to pool their savings, lend them to one another, and own the organization where they save, borrow, and obtain related financial services. Members are united by a common bond usually either persons employed by the same company, members of the same labor union, fraternal, professional and trade association, religious group or cooperative association or persons who reside or work in a well-defined neighborhood, community or rural district.

Because a credit union is owned by its members, the sponsoring group has no jurisdiction or authority over the credit union. To operate, a credit union must have a board of directors who democratically operate the credit union under state or federal regulation, a credit committee (or loan officers) and a supervisory committee. The members select their own officials at an annual meeting.

The manager is the person that carries on the day-to-day operation of the credit union. The board of directors determines the amount of dividends to be paid for a particular period taking into consideration current market rates.

Each member's account is insured up to $100,000 by the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA), an agency of the Federal government.

Common types of loans in credit unions are: signature, automobiles, real estate, boats, farm equipment, education, mobile homes, and household goods.

In a credit union, most members have the advantage of a payroll deduction program where their employer sends an agreed-upon amount from their salary directly to the credit union. There, the funds are deposited into the members' savings or checking account or applied against a loan. This is a very convenient process and highly regarded by credit union members.

There are many additional programs available including certificates of deposit, credit cards, share draft (checking) accounts, open-end credit, and insurance programs.

How to become a credit union member

After learning the benefits of being a member of a credit union, the first question most non-members ask is, "How can I join a credit union?"

One important aspect of credit unions is that they are not open to the general public. Membership is open to only those within the credit union's field of membership. At one time most credit unions had a very narrowly defined field of membership. For example, if you were an employee of the XYZ Widgit Company, you could join the XYZ Widgit Company Credit Union but no one else could. Credit unions were most often established around work, but many were based on churches, professions, communities, trade unions and other clearly identified groups.

Over the years, many smaller credit unions merged to offer their members more serious services and thereby broadened their field of membership. At the request of their members, credit unions also began opening to the families of members and allowing people who retired or left their jobs to keep their credit union membership.

Other credit unions began to include a geographic area, such as a county or township, in their field of membership. Today, most credit unions are open to many people who may not realize they are eligible.

Over 3.6 million people in Michigan are members of a credit union, more than one out of every three residents of the state. It is likely that a majority of Michigan's people are eligible for membership in one or more of the nearly 600 credit unions in our state.

If you are interested in joining a credit union, ask at work to see if your company has one. If not, go to your local Yellow Pages and look up credit unions. Find those most conveniently located to your work or home and give them a call. Ask them if you qualify. You might be surprised to find that you do. You may have to contact several credit unions to find the right one for you, but keep at it. It's worth the effort.

If all else fails, feel free to call the Michigan Credit Union League at (800) 572-7350 and the league will find you a credit union.

You'll find that it pays to be a member of a Michigan credit union.

Michigan credit unions are secret success story

Credit unions have been called the "secret success story" of the financial world. While crisis after crisis rocked the financial industry over the past decade and stories of junk bonds, leveraged buy outs, corporate take overs and third world debt filled the news, the quiet little credit unions kept chugging along, serving their members and keeping their house in order.

Credit unions don't chase around the world seeking the highest return on their money. They exist to serve their members. So the money deposited in Michigan credit unions didn't go to finance real estate developments in Texas or luxury apartments in Brazil, it went to work in your community to help ordinary people buy homes and cars, to send kids to college and to provide a little breathing space for working people.

Yet, despite these modest goals, the combined assets of Michigan credit unions topped $13 billion last year and 3.6 million people in this state belonged to a credit union. That's almost 40% of the population. As always, credit unions were focused on the needs of individual citizens. The distribution of loans from Michigan credit unions was 36.6% in general consumer loans, 33.6% in auto loans and 29.4% in home mortgages. Only 0.4% fell into the commercial category and those were primarily agricultural loans.

Through it all, credit unions have set the standard for safety and security in the financial industry. You may not hear about credit unions in the news all the time but that may be the final proof of how credit unions are the "secret success story" for Michigan consumers.

Northland Area Federal Credit Union hosts open house October 18-22

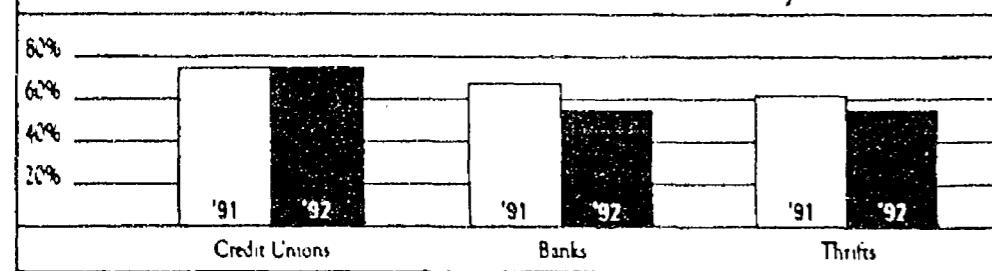

On October 21 Northland Area Federal Credit Union, Grayling, and other surrounding communities will join 88 million people in a worldwide celebration -- International Credit Union Day. Plus more than 22,000 Northland Area Federal Credit Union members and employees will be commemorating the credit union's 36th year anniversary.

Credit unions are a non-profit organization that helps improve the quality of life for other members. By using members' deposits credit unions can provide low interest rate loans for a first home, car, or college education.

The theme, "The Power of Partnership," focuses on the idea that, through credit union members all over the world have the power to strengthen the financial future of their families and surrounding community.

"On International Credit Union Day our members and employees celebrate the economic freedom and financial opportunities that belonging to a credit union has provided them. Plus, this year we're celebrating our 36th year of providing quality financial products and service to the community," said Terence Bigda, president of Northland Area Federal Credit Union.

Direct deposit saves customers time

Tired of waiting in the teller line on payday? Wish you could have someone else deposit your paycheck for you? Consider direct deposit, which occurs when you authorize an agency, institution or your employer to place funds directly into your credit union account without your intervention.

If you're a bit reluctant to try direct deposit for whatever reason, there is no cause for worry. You will receive an earnings statement on payday that shows how much money was deposited, as well as how much money was withheld for taxes, the company savings plan, or any other withheld amounts for your records.

Convenience is only one of the main benefits you will receive by having your check direct-deposited. You'll save time. No more waiting in teller lines on payday or giving up your lunch hour to deposit your check.

Direct deposit eliminates risk, too, and assures you safety and a timely deposit. Your deposit is consistently made on time and you get paid even if you're not at work—if you're ill or on vacation, or on a business trip. It's also helpful for people who work off-hour shifts and have trouble getting to their financial institution during normal business hours.

Direct-deposited funds also "clear" automatically. You can write checks right away without concern that your paycheck funds haven't been credited. Direct deposit assures that your check earns interest as soon as possible. If you have to deposit your paycheck in person, any delay postpones when your money starts to make money for you.

Direct deposit with payroll deduction is a powerful money management tool. Using payroll deduction to put a percentage of your paycheck into savings each payday is as easy and "painless" way to save. You can also choose to make a loan payment to your credit union automatically. This way you can accomplish three things at the same time — build your savings, fulfill a debt obligation, and make funds available immediately.

It's easy to set up direct deposit, just ask your employer or credit union and you'll be on your way to the benefits of having your funds deposited directly into your account.

Shopping for a car? Think carefully about financing

Automobiles are an essential part of the car. People who shop for the car the American dream. Yet, while first and think about the financing owning a new car is fun and exciting, later are often vulnerable to accepting most of us dread the process of buying convenient — but expensive — a car. Except for our house, a car is likely our most expensive purchase and it's hard to feel confident at purchase time as auto dealers sell cars everyday while we may buy a car only once in several years.

What's more, we often spend a lot of time shopping for just the right car at the best possible price and then lose all the advantage we've gained by choosing the financing carelessly.

There are some basic steps you can take to make it more likely you can be in the driver's seat when it comes to getting the best deal.

First determine how much you want to spend on a car. Then go shopping for the financing before you shop for you can afford and the shortest payment time. A longer loan for a lower monthly payment costs you more in finance charges.

Make certain you investigate the cost of credit life and disability insurance; coverage that pays off your loan should you die or become seriously injured. Such coverage can range from cost effective to absurdly overpriced. Credit unions tend to have the cheapest credit insurance while dealerships tend to have the most expensive.

Once you know how much you can afford, you're ready to research vehicles.

Use the new car reference books and magazines available at your public library to learn as much as possible before visiting showrooms. Be realistic about what you want. Consider your driving patterns and the size and activities of your family.

Decide if you want transportation or status. Focus on two or three alternatives.

When you walk into the showroom, let the salesperson know the general price range of car you're interested in so he or she doesn't try to sell you more than you're prepared to spend. However, don't reveal the exact amount of your pre-approved loan and down payment until you finish negotiating the price and options on the new car. If the sales person knows you are pre-approved for $10,000, he'll sell you a $10,000 car.

If you have a trade-in, keep it out of the discussion until after you've negotiated your best price for the new car. Note that as a rule, you'll get the most for your used car by selling it yourself.

Shop around for the best deal. Don't buy the first car you see. Think it over for a day or two. If you have confidence in your decision, you'll enjoy your new car long after you drive it off the lot.

Answers about Michigan's credit unions

Isn't a credit union the same as a bank?

Local taxes, service fees and other costs. In addition, credit union members pay personal taxes on the dividends (interest) they receive. Since credit unions do not make profits, they do not have any profits on which to pay taxes.

Can anyone join a credit union?

One must be a part of a "common bond" that makes up the field of membership to be able to join a particular credit union. Not everyone can qualify to join every credit union. However, most people may qualify for credit union membership through their work, church, association or community. Over 3.6 million people in Michigan belong to credit unions, which means more than one out of every three citizens are members. The largest Michigan credit union has more than 100,000 members while the smallest has fewer than 100.

What are some of the advantages of using a credit union?

Credit unions exist to serve their members. Financial industry surveys have consistently shown credit union members to be more satisfied with the service they receive than bank and S & L customers. Members have the power to direct credit union policy and even replace the board of directors if they choose. Since they are not seeking to earn a profit from their consumer members, credit unions usually charge lower rates for loans, credit cards, checking (share draft), and other services and often offer higher interest on savings.

Are Michigan credit unions federally insured?

Yes. Every single Michigan credit union, whether state chartered or federally chartered, is insured by the federal government through the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA).

Doesn't a financial institution have to be insured by the FDIC to be safe?

No. The FDIC was established to insure banks. When the S & L crisis bankrupted the S & L fund (FSLIC), FSLIC was merged into the FDIC. Credit unions are insured through the NCUA's fund (NCUSIF) which is the fiscally healthiest of all federal insurance programs for financial institutions.

Are Michigan credit unions safe?

Yes. Michigan credit unions are among the most secured financial institutions in the nation. Less than one half of one percent of credit union loans are for commercial purposes. The other 99.6% are in home mortgages, car loans and small consumer loans.

How is a credit union governed?

Members elect a volunteer board of directors, which sets the policies of the credit union. In small credit unions, the elected treasurer often acts as manager while volunteers carry out the various functions of the organization. Larger credit unions hire professional staff to run day-to-day operations of the institution.

ANYONE
NEEDS TO BELONG TO A CREDIT UNION

Millions of consumers are discovering (and enjoying) the convenience and lower cost of borrowing from Michigan's only not-for-profit, member-owned financial institutions, credit unions.

These unique cooperative organizations are in business only to serve the financial needs of their members and offer consumer loans for new and used vehicles, boats, home improvements and just about any other worthwhile purpose. Many even provide mortgages.

When you need a consumer loan, take advantage of the low money-saving rates, convenient repayment terms and unmatched personal service available to credit union members.

For more information, check with the credit union that may serve your place of employment, your community or your place of worship.

Shared Memories

Dear lady with the silver in your hair
Think of all the good memories we share
Though we have met for the first time today
I am sure you'll understand what I say
About the depression days when times were so bad
Still I think of the great times we had

The closeness of families so rare today
As we struggled hard to make our way
Working hard to make a dollar
Knowing it did no good to just sit and holler
For mom and dad didn't have a dime to spare
And we were all expected to do our share

To help provide the food for the family table
And each was asked to do all we were able
And we were proud to do our share
To help fill those cellar shelves not leave them bare
When neighbor helped neighbor to ease their pain
Without a thought of profit or gain

Then we were plunged into the depths of war
Sons and brothers called to serve by the score
V Mail was the only way to keep in touch
We treasured each one though they didn't say much
Those telegrams that caused such grief and pain
For sons and brothers we'd never see again

When at long last the war was won
With open arms we greeted each returning son
Those are the kind of memories we share
We only need to look and they are there
We've had our days of joy and days of strife
Those memories we share are memories of life

High powered Whittemore offense stops Vikings, 13-0

By Terry Wright

The high powered offense of the Whittemore-Prescott Cardinals was shut down for three quarters on Friday by a determined Grayling Viking defense. All the Cardinal scoring came in the first quarter, but it was enough to drop the Vikings, 13-0, as a sputtering Viking offense was never able to find the endzone.

The Cardinals boast the state's leading ground gainer and scorer in Tom Tyson. Tyson, a 230 pound, faster-than-a-bullet behemoth, has gained over 1,500 yards rushing this season. The Vikings held him to just over 100 yards in rushing, including a 96 yard touchdown run on the third play of the game.

The Vikings only scoring threat came in the second quarter when senior quarterback Chris Wolcott threw to senior receiver Kris Andersen for an apparent touchdown. An illegal procedure penalty that caught the Vikings with only ten men on the field, nullified the score.

The teams traded turnovers through most of the game. Whittemore lost three fumbles and one interception to Grayling. The Vikings had five passes intercepted. "We couldn't get much offense going," Grayling Coach Dave Larkin said. "As soon as they would turn it over to us, we'd give it back."

Penalties also plagued the Vikings. In one six minute stretch in the third quarter, the Vikings controlled the ball but because of penalties only gained 30 total yards.

The Viking offense was held to just 60 yards rushing and 99 passing. Junior runner Steve Bugyi led the rushers with 27 yards on 13 carries. Sophomore Andy Perrin had 25 yards on six carries and Wolcott was held to only 8 yards on ten carries. Wolcott's numbers were held down by being sacked behind the line of scrimmage three times.

Bugyi also led the Grayling receivers with three catches for 21 yards. Paul Hartman, Andy Perrin, Chris Jones, and Kris Andersen each caught one pass.

Defensively, Wolcott led Viking tacklers with ten. Brian Kernstock added nine and Jason Secord added eight tackles.

This Friday, the Vikings host the Lake City Trojans. "Lake City is a lot like Grayling," Larkin said. "They only have 18 or 19 players, but they're very well coached, and they don't give up. I think it'll be an evenly matched game but we'll have to improve our performance if we want to win."

GHS golfers shoot best of season in B regionals

By Terry Wright

The Grayling Viking varsity golf team finished their season last week at the class-B regional tournament in Houghton Lake. The Vikings shot a team total of 363, their best 18 hole total of the season, which left them in eleventh place in the field of 18 teams.

Senior Josh Wells led the Viking attack with an 84, which was his personal best and the team best for the season. Coach Herb Olson said, "It was a great performance from Wells. He was on fire."

Freshman Miguel Perez shot a personal best 86, including a blistering two-over-par 37 on the back nine. Senior Ben Cook finished with a 92 after shooting a three-over-par 40 on the back nine. Senior Jeremiah Blaauw finished with a 102. The meet was held at the White Deer Country Club on Friday, October 8.

The golfers from Manistee won the regional championship with a total score of 333. In finishing eleventh, the Vikings tied Oscoda and beat teams from Chippewa Hills, Kalkaska, Pinconning, Reed City, Standish, and Cheboygan.

In the second quarter, the Vikings scored again on a six play drive that was kept alive by several Whittemore penalties.

Godlewski capped the drive with a six-yard quarterback keeper.

The Cardinals blocked Hartman's PAT attempt.

When the first half ended the score stood at Grayling 13, and Whittemore-Prescott 6.

The second half was marked by continual poor field position for the Vikings and good field position for the Cardinals. Whittemore was able to capitalize on its good position twice. Swanson took a Viking punt on the Grayling 47 and raced past the Viking kicking team around the end and into the endzone. Quarterback Sean Groat carried the ball for the two-point conversion giving the Cardinals their first lead of the game at 14-13.

JR. VIKINGS TAKE A TIME OUT--The Viking Jr. Varsity huddles around Coach Fred Wolcott during their game against Whittemore-Prescott last Thursday. The Vikings played a tough game both offensively and defensively but could not hold off the Cardinals who scored a 22-13 victory.

Eighth grade girls dominate challengers

By Terry Wright

The Grayling girls' 8th grade (B) basketball team continued on its winning way in the last two weeks beating Kalkaska, St. Joseph, and Boyne City.

On September 27, the girls punished the team from Kalkaska, 44-4.

Grayling Coach Doug Simons said, "This was by far our best game of the year. Every team member contributed.

Every time I put a substitute in the game we kept playing better."

Melanie Wakefield and Amy Godlewski led Grayling with 12 points each. Kristy Cadeau finished with eight points. Simons recognized Julie McMann for her excellent defensive play.

Two days later Grayling hosted St. Joseph and came away with a 34-12 win. "The whole team played good defense," Simons said. "They held St. Joe's to just two points in each of the first three quarters."

Cadeau led Grayling scorers with 14 points, followed by Wakefield with eight, and Godlewski with six. Wakefield and Anna Neidrick led the defensive game with good rebounding efforts.

On October 4, Grayling traveled to Boyne City and again came away with the victory, 20-16.

"It was obvious from the beginning we were in for a battle, but we did not give up," Simons said. "The entire team played great. This was the most exciting game of the year. It was nice to see our team pushing themselves. The girls truly deserved this game, because they wanted it more."

Godlewski led Grayling scorers with eight points. Nicki Osga added four points. Good defense was a team effort, with Osga, Cadeau, Susan Dedafoe, Neidrick, Julie McMann, and Godlewski playing good defensive games.

The Bible Speaks

Religious War?

At the 1992 GOP Convention, Patrick J. Buchanan stated that America is in the grip of a religious war. Liberals recoiled in horror branding him a promoter of intolerance and hatred. Meanwhile, they, in the name of political and religious "correctness" refuse God, the Bible, and traditional moral values any valid authority in dealing with the cultural corruption and conflict which are destroying the moral foundation of our great nation.

In this post-Christian era, the only voice permitted such public authority is that of "civil religion." Jean-Jacques Rousseau identified this religion in 1761 in his The Social Contract, calling it the worship of collective human power. The voice of this religion is heard daily across America as the media reports the results of the latest public polls.

Earlier in our century, Germany's National Socialism required obedience to the state as "higher than the revelation of all churches." Hitler Youth sang an anthem proclaiming,

"Our flag is the New Age." Christians were encouraged to embrace the new "Positive Christianity" which was in submission to the state. Christian leaders who resisted, faced increased charges of "a dangerous over-extension of ecclesiastical influence into the political arena." Nazi propaganda publicly charged such Christian leaders with sexual impropriety, being "divisive reactionaries," "money-smuggling" and other social evils. The public was encouraged to help find and punish these clerical delinquents.

This same civil religion was described by historian Arnold Toynbee at the heart of the bloody French Revolution. "In the Revolution a sinister ancient religion which had been dormant suddenly re-erupted with elemental violence. This re-erupted was the fanatical worship of collective human power. The Terror was only the first of the mass-crimes that have been committed... in this evil religion's name." Some called it The Enlightenment.

James Madison, known as the father of our constitution once said, "We have staked the whole future of American civilization, not upon the power of government — far from it. We have staked the future of all of our political institutions... upon the capacity of each and all of us to govern ourselves, to control ourselves, to sustain ourselves according to the Ten Commandments of God." (Above quotes from The New American, 9/6/93).

From The

"Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin [is] a reproach to any people." (Pro. 14:34). "Blessed [is] the nation whose God [is] the LORD; [and] the people [whom] he hath chosen for his own inheritance." (Psa. 33:12). Will Americans repent of their sins? (2 Chr. 7:14). Or will we repeat a German holocaust or a French revolution?

Michigan trout production up

Michigan's 49 commercial trout operations sold 1,080,000 pounds of trout during the year ending August 31, 1993, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service. This was an increase of 25% over last season. Sales were valued at $2.99 million, and included sales of foodsize trout (usually 12 inches or longer), stockers (usually six to 12 inches), fingerlings (two to six inches), and eggs. Michigan was one of 15 states selected to conduct a survey of trout producers.

Nationally, trout sales, including egg sales, increased six percent from a year ago. Trout growers in the 15 selected states sold a total of 58.5 million pounds of trout this year. Foodsize trout sales accounted for 86% of the value of all trout sold.

Losses of trout in Michigan, to all causes, amounted to nearly 137,000 fish, weighing 57,000 pounds. Predators and chemicals were the leading causes of death accounting for 58% and 18%, respectively, of all fish lost.

Women's retreat set for November 5, 6

The theme for the 22nd annual Win-Some Women's Retreat this year is The Power of God. "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power and of love, and of a sound mind." (KJV). The retreat will be held on Friday and Saturday, November 5 and 6, at the Boyne Mountain Lodge Conference Center in Boyne Falls.

Steve and Maria Gardner will be the special music at the retreat this year. They have recorded over 50 albums, performed over 3,000 concerts attended by well over a million people, and have appeared on every major Christian TV network. The Gardners have a comfortable stage presence that includes musical excellence in a middle-of-the-road adult contemporary style.

Another husband/wife team, Ed and Peg Burdick of Montague, will be ministering during the seminar sessions. They are both active speakers and have taught marriage seminars together. Rev. David Behling of Harbor Springs, will also be participating in the seminars and will lead the Sunrise Prayer Time from 7 to 8 a.m., Saturday morning.

The two main featured guest speakers this year will be Elise Arndt and Marilyn Meberg.

There will be six seminars to choose from with the opportunity to attend four of them during the retreat.

For more information and brochures/posters, contact Marilyn Fick, 348-8642.

Church Directory

"Let go, little one. We're waiting right here to catch you. Now, just take that first step. You can do it!" That first step is an important milestone. There may be some initial faltering, but with trust, determination, encouragement and loving guidance, that all important self-assurance is only one courageous step away.

In Psalm 8:2, David tells us the Lord has "set my feet upon a rock, making my steps secure."

At times, events in our lives leave us insecure and unsure as to which steps to take and to the decisions we must make.

You can take your most important step this Sabbath as you enter your church or synagogue. God is waiting with outstretched arms to love you...to encourage you...to guide you. Trust Him. As unequalled strength and assurance surrounds you, you will falter no more. Each step will be a step toward God.

Eagles host benefit dinner

The Grayling Eagles #3465 are sponsoring an appreciation dinner for Fran McCluskey on October 23, at the Eagles Club. The Eagles will be paying homage to her and her family, who have been active members of the club for the past six years. This is their way of letting her know how much she is appreciated and admired for her courage as she endures the many facets and extensive surgeries due to cancer.

A meal of ham, scalloped potatoes, and many salads and desserts can be enjoyed for the cost of $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under. Also available will be a cash bar and entertainment donated by Shannon Rae and Co. Dinner will be served from 5 to 8 p.m.

All money raised from this benefit dinner will be donated to help defray the cost of Fran McCluskey's medical expenses. Join in supporting the McCluskey family by attending this benefit dinner.

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Director Roland Harnes says the public needs to know that legislation enacted into law this year, authorizing new permit application fees, means that any land and water permits filed with the DNR on or after October 11, 1993, must be accompanied by the new, appropriate fee.

The new amendments to eight existing statutes authorize application fees for construction in lakes, streams, rivers, floodplains, sand dunes and high-risk erosion areas, as well as for control of aquatic weeds. Some of the fees are maintained at previous rates, while others are newly created or increased.

"The additional funds collected from these fees will be used to increase staffing at field offices, in an effort to shorten processing time for nearly 8,000 annual permit applications," Harnes explained. "Staff will have more time to answer questions and provide important information to potential applicants while their projects are still in planning stages. This should help curb legal violations, minimize potential damage to our natural resources and aid important economic development projects."

In the past, permit applications requiring fees up to $25 have cost more than $500 apiece to process. The new amendments authorize the DNR to establish or increase certain fees, so that more of the processing costs would be borne by the applicant.

The new permit application fees are as follows:

For projects altering lakes, streams, Great Lakes bottomlands or floodplains, fees are now $50 to $100, $500 or $2,000 depending on the type of proposed activity and its potential impact on natural resources. Permit applications for these projects were previously free-of-charge, or required a $25 fee, depending on the project.

These new fees have been established by the Inland Lakes and Streams Act (PA 346 of 1972, as amended by PA 181 of 1993); the Great Lakes Submerged Lands Act (PA 247 of 1955, as amended by PA 178 of 1993), and the act creating the Water Resources Commission (PA 245 of 1929, as amended by PA 155 of 1993).

Permit applications for review of proposed subdivisions within floodplain areas now require a fee of $500. Areas without previously computed floodplain elevations now require fees of up to $2,000. There were previously no fees for these projects. Legal authority is granted under the Subdivision Control Act (PA 288 of 1967, as amended by PA 150 of 1993).

Construction projects in high-risk erosion zones along the Great Lakes have been free of charge. They now require a permit application fee ranging from $50 for additions to homes, to $500 for multiple family structures.

These new fees have been established by the Shorelands Protection and Management Act (PA 245 of 1979, as amended by PA 151 of 1993).

Construction projects in designated Critical Dune Areas require permit application fees ranging from $50 for additions to garages to $500 for multi-family, industrial or commercial structures. These fees remain at their previous levels, and are authorized by the Sand Dune Protection and Management Act (PA 222 of 1976, as amended by PA 152 of 1993).

This column is presented as a public service to the community by District Health Department No. 1 which serves, Wexford, Missaukee, Kalkaska, and Crawford counties. Question: How do I know when to keep my child home from school due to an illness? How sick is sick enough to miss school?

Answer: The answers to these questions are not always clear. For parents, no child's illness is trivial, but many illnesses in children are not severe enough to interfere with their performance or enjoyment in school.

The following recommendations are based on those of Dr. William Sears, a well-known pediatrician and author.

Children with colds and runny noses do not have to be excluded from school. Your child should stay home and possibly consult a physician if the following symptoms exist:

• Diarrhea, meaning more than one abnormally loose stool.

• A child who has been vomiting should stay home.

• A severe cough, one that keeps the child up at night and may be accompanied by fever, pain, or difficulty breathing warrants staying home.

• Children with high fever, complaints of a sore throat and difficulty swallowing, rashes or unusual spots of unknown origin, reddened eyes with persistent drainage, lethargy or extreme tiredness also should stay home.

• Pay attention to unusual behavior. Crankiness, crying more than usual, or general discomfort may indicate illness.

Another area of uncertainty may be when it is advisable to send your child back to school after an illness. If your child has been diagnosed with strep throat infection, impetigo or conjunctivitis (pinkeye), he or she usually may return to school when the family physician recommends or after 24-48 hours of treatment, as they are no longer considered contagious. With other illnesses they may return when symptoms disappear, or at the end of a specific time as in the case of certain infections or rashes. If you are unsure of when this is or have other questions about illnesses and school attendance, you may contact your physician or health department.

Rep. Lowe co-sponsors safe railroad crossing legislation

Railroad crossings in Michigan could be made safer under provisions of a bill approved Wednesday in the state House, said an area lawmaker who co-sponsored the legislation.

State Rep. Allen Lowe, a member of the House Transportation Committee, said the plan would help free up state and federal funds for safety work on high-risk crossings after several tragic incidents throughout Michigan.

"Our complex system of funding railroad crossing upgrades is detrimental to improving the safety of the locations," said Lowe, R-Grayling. "Several crossings have had multiple fatalities. Considering this is a life and death matter, Michigan railroad crossings must be upgraded with all deliberate speed."

Dozens of railroad crossings are identified as having high traffic accident histories, and warrant immediate attention, said Lowe, who also served on a special House subcommittee examining rail recodification legislation.

House Bill 4900 releases state and federal funds for the projects which are being delayed because of current requirements for railroad company and local matching funds. If company and local money is unavailable, current law prohibits state and federal funds from being spent.

The legislation allows identification of high-priority railroad crossings where a public hazard exists and safety is a critical concern. Proper safety equipment could be installed at those locations, funded solely with state money, according to the measure.

The money would be used for such items as crossing signal devices or other safety equipment, Lowe said. The bill includes a two-year sunset stipulation, returning the program to the current funding formula for all crossings in 1995. During the two-year span of the measure, crossings not classified as high priority would have safety work funded 50 percent by state and federal funds and the rest by local and railroad company funds.

At the end of this period, crossings not classified as high priority would continue to be evaluated and upgraded. Under that structure, the state and federal funds underwrite 65% of the cost, the railroad pays 25%, and local funds cover 10%.

"Until now funding has been a problem even though there have been sufficient state and federal dollars available," Lowe said. "By temporarily suspending the funding formula on these high-risk crossings, lives will be saved."

The bill has been sent to the Senate for consideration.

Radon test kits available

Governor Engler has proclaimed the week of October 17-23, 1993, as Radon Action Week in Michigan.

Radon is a tasteless, odorless, radioactive gas that occurs naturally in soil and rock. The gas moves upward through the soil and enters buildings through cracks and openings in the foundation floor or walls. Outdoors, it is diluted by the atmosphere, but indoors, it tends to be more concentrated and can accumulate to unhealthy levels.

Radon gas is the second leading cause of lung cancer in the nation and the number one cause of lung cancer among non-smokers.

Trace amounts of radon can be found in every community in the state of Michigan, and elevated levels of radon usually occur in one out of eight homes in the state. In some counties, as many as 45% of the homes could have radon screening levels above the EPA recommended action guideline of 4 picocuries per liter. The only way to know whether a home has elevated radon levels is to test it.

District Health Department No. 1 has radon test kits available for $10. For more information about radon, visit the health department in Grayling, or call 348-7800.

Howard Lehti and Tom Mills were the winners of the Lions Club's 50/50 raffle this week.
